Call for Presentations

The New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) is soliciting presentations for the 2019 Law Enforcement Symposium to be held in Albany, NY from October 9th through October 11th. Presentations must be submitted to DCJS by July 1, 2019 to be considered for this event.

The Symposium attendees are primarily involved with either one or both of DCJS’s signature programs; Gun Involved Violence Elimination (GIVE) or the Crime Analysis Center Program (CAC). DCJS continuously strives be the national leader and innovator in supporting local law enforcement agencies. GIVE is unique in that it is the only state-supported program in the nation that requires the use of evidence-based practices to reduce gun violence and save lives. GIVE provides local law enforcement with the funding, technical assistance and training to reduce violent crime and enhance public safety. The CAC Program is equally unique as a state-wide network of analysis centers that bring together more than 300 agencies into a data-sharing network. The CACs are multi-jurisdictional units that provide in-depth data analytics to gain a comprehensive picture of the criminal environment within the centers’ geographical areas of responsibility, enhance real-time crime-fighting support capacity, support informed decision-making in fighting crime, and promote crime prevention and safe communities.

The 2019 DCJS Law Enforcement Symposium will bring together over 600 criminal justice professionals from New York and the rest of the country that are involved in the following disciplines:

• Law Enforcement Executives (police, sheriff, prosecution, community supervision)
• Crime Analysts
• Front-line personnel
• Street outreach management
• Researchers
